WARREN HIGH SCHOOL
Warren, Pennsylvania

*High in air thy spires are tow'ring
Gleaming in the light,
While their solemn shades embow'ring
Waves the Blue and White—
Furling in its tranquil beauty
O'er a body true—
Sons and daughters bound by duty
Give their love to you.*

*May thy honor all un-dying
Keep thee ever free,
Through the years behind us flying
Oft proclaiming thee.
Kindly Mother—Queen of pleasure—
High above the rest—
May thy passing years, the measure
Prove thee still the best.*

Foreword

*T*hrough the ages, customs and institutions have undergone changes because of technical advancement. More than anything else, television has symbolized this process of change for seniors in 1958. Because of its influence the "Dragon" Staff decided to view Warren High School through the medium of television.

Depending upon his whim, the viewer may turn to any of four appropriately numbered channels. Even better he may turn back at any time without missing a word. All the programs are documentary. Of course, there are limitations, for a yearbook can preserve only a few glimpses of the work, the fun, and the normal life of any school.

If viewing Warren High School through the eye of television recalls other pictures to the silver screen of the mind, the 1958 "Dragon" has fulfilled its purpose.

The cold steel of the Warren Television Company antenna gathers the warmth of video entertainment for the city below.

Dedication

To Mr. Joseph A. Massa, by reason of his enthusiastic interest in the physical well-being of Warren High School boys and for his vital concern in maintaining a sound program of athletics, we, the Class of 1958, respectfully dedicate our "Dragon."

We appreciate his recognition and practice of the rules of fair play and democratic sportsmanship. Especially we admire his patience and understanding in setting forth policies of justice.

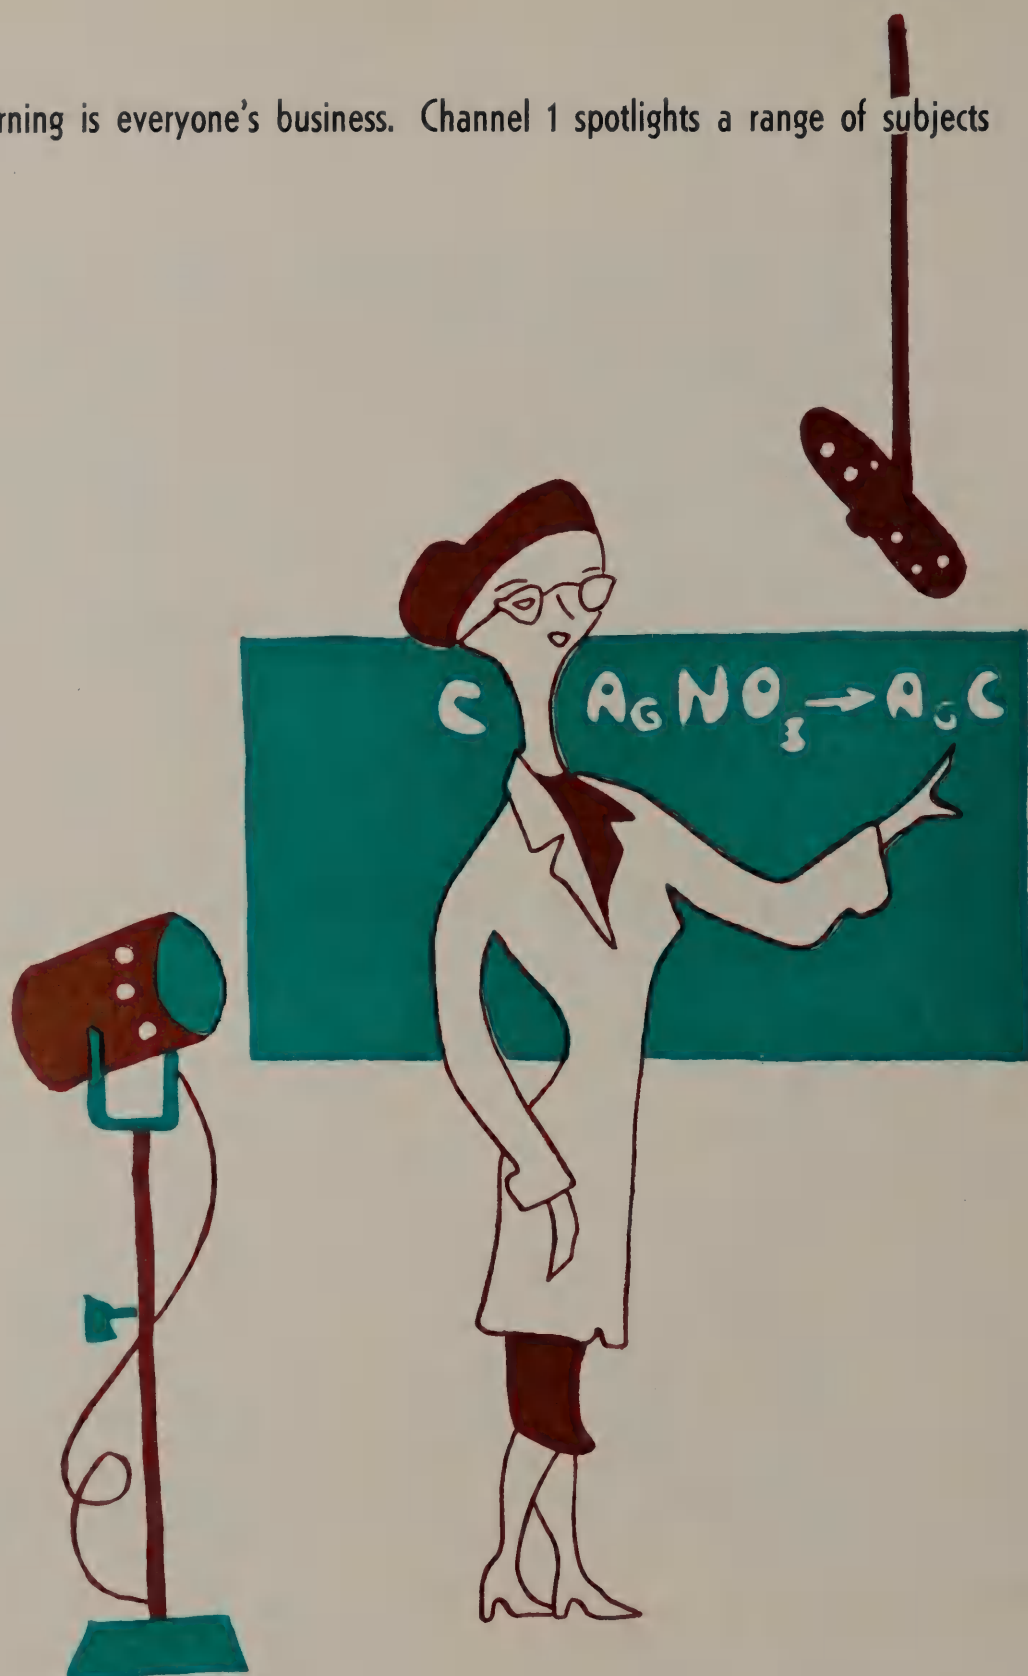

Qualifying at Edinboro State Teachers' College and at The Pennsylvania State University, Mr. Massa, an alumnus of Warren High School, returned to Warren in 1942 to become instructor of physical education for boys. Shortly afterwards he accepted his present position of head basketball coach. Recently he became athletic director after assisting for many years on the football and the track coaching staffs.

Through his avid interest in sports Mr. Massa has helped the boys under his instruction to develop both physically and mentally. Those who have known him will always remember him as a personal friend.

Learning is everyone's business. Channel 1 spotlights a range of subjects

Joint Committee Of The Warren Area School Board

This year saw the Warren Area School Board rapidly advancing the plans for the new Warren High School building. The Board hired appraisers and accepted their estimate for the purchase of the school site. Making the first payments on the new school and starting the actual plans for the building were also on the agenda for the year.

Besides working on plans for the construction of the new high school building, the School Board have continued their regular duties. They determine the policies of the school, make the rules and regulations, elect and assign teachers, approve the budget for the financial program of the year, cope with any unforeseen difficulties, and carry on any other duties directed by the State Department of Public Instruction.

The Joint Committee of the Warren Area School Board is composed of all members of the Warren Borough School Board and one member from each of the School Districts: Conewango, Elk, Glade, Kinzua, Mead, Pleasant, and Watson Townships, and Clarendon Borough.

Warren is indeed fortunate in having these public-spirited citizens as members of its Warren Area School Board who without remuneration accept this important responsibility.

HEALTH

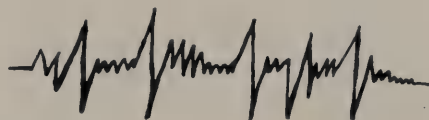

Students in health classes acquired a basic knowledge of the structure and the functions of the organs of the body. Another facet of the course included putting the rules of safety into practice. Sophomores taking this required one - semester course prepared to help themselves and others if an emergency should arise.

BIOLOGY

The plant and animal kingdoms comprised the field of biology. Beginning with the study of lower plant life, class work advanced to more complex forms such as the seed-bearing plants. As an introduction to the animal kingdom, students inspected slides of pond water showing many one-celled animals. Progressing to animals of more complicated structure, students dissected earthworms and frogs. Discussion finally proceeded to the vertebrates and the study of man himself.

Charts, pictures, and diagrams helped students understand the subject matter more clearly. Specimens brought in by students provided an interesting supplement to the course.

This microscope projector brought into focus for the biology classes the minute world of the amoeba and the paramecium.

CHEMISTRY

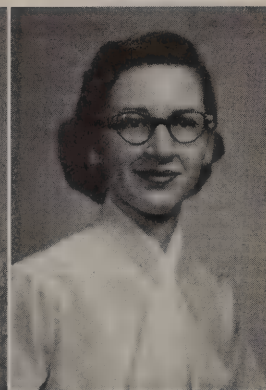

Learning to understand the composition of the world about us was the primary object of the classes in chemistry. With part of their class time devoted to lectures and part to laboratory experiments, Miss Taft's students made a study of the more important elements and compounds. They emphasized the electron theory and made a thorough coverage of the most important industrial and laboratory preparations of chemical compounds. Of special interest to students was the time spent in examining the fields of nuclear chemistry and atomic power, which climaxed their year's work.

Laboratory partners experimented with simple reactions.

PHYSICS

Discussion of the launchings of the earth satellites not only provided an interesting sidelight to class work, but it also illustrated the growing importance of physics in our modern world. Students' knowledge of heat, light, sound, electricity, and mechanics increased through experimentation and observation. At the end of the year student projects occupied the majority of class time. These projects dealt with any phase of physics which interested the student.

Physics gave these boys a chance to explore natural laws.

Mr. Carr helped a second-year algebra student to increase his understanding of generalized mathematics.

MATHEMATICS

The mathematics department enlarged and improved its curriculum this year. Students who had not taken algebra I in Beaty had a chance to take it this year. Sophomores had an opportunity to take algebra II and then to continue with plane geometry, solid geometry, and trigonometry during their junior and senior years. For the first time Mr. Sampson taught a special advanced course in college preparatory mathematics to a class of about fifteen seniors.

The study of history, geography, economics, and sociology gave students a background in social studies.

In their study of world history sophomores explored the realms of religions, civilizations, and languages. Learning about the people of other countries helped students understand the problems which they faced in striving for world unity.

Juniors learned the past and the present history of America and discussed its influence upon the future of our country.

The study of budgets, delinquency, wages, taxes, and crime made students in economics and sociology realize the part they could play in the search for better solutions of social problems.

Mr. Noecker described the economic factors of food preservation.

A study of newspapers acquainted Mr. Carr's classes with the types of journalistic writing.

Miss Spade insisted that seniors express their thoughts clearly and consisely.

ENGLISH

English, an essential subject to everyone, dealt with the students' attempts to express themselves, to communicate with others, and to react to the people and the literature of the world. By enlarging their knowledge of basic grammar and snytax throughout the three years of study, the English department prepared for further schooling and for life in general.

Various selections from the writings of the world comprised the sophomore literature course. American literature from the colonial period to the present gave

The study of second-year Latin constituted the Latin course in the high school this year. The classes consisted of one hundred twenty sophomores.

Mr. Stachowiak stressed the importance of English derivation from Latin words. Students developed a larger vocabulary and learned more complicated grammar. A large part of the students' work consisted of translating sentence drills.

The translation of the "Gallic Wars" and "The Argonauts" not only provided the students with a chance to apply their vocabulary and grammar but also acquainted them with the background of Roman civilization.

A mural, statues, and home projects done in past years gave true Latin atmosphere to the room.

Latin students studied the lives and customs as well as the language of the Romans.

SPANISH

Spanish, an elective foreign language, interested about ninety-six sophomores, juniors, and seniors. The first-year Spanish classes concentrated on vocabulary and grammar, since learning the language necessitated proper sentence structure and use of everyday words. To become familiar with the sound of the language, students spent much time in conversation.

Second year students centered their attention mainly on reading and learning advanced grammar with the emphasis on verbs. Speaking the language and translating were important features of their work.

The students enjoyed hearing Mr. Kauffman tell about the history and the customs of the Spanish speaking people.

The map of Spain brought to mind bullfights, castanets, and handsome toreadors.

With approximately one hundred sixty-five students enrolled in both the first and second year courses, German proved to be one of the most popular languages.

The first year students concentrated on reading and speaking elementary sentences. Mr. Kauffman drilled them in German translations, both oral and written. They also learned to focus their attention on vocabulary and grammar.

Reading "The Student Prince" fluently in German and translating it into English constituted the major part of second year work. New vocabulary and more intricate grammar kept everyone alert. Conversations with Herr Zulak and fellow students became everyday occurrences.

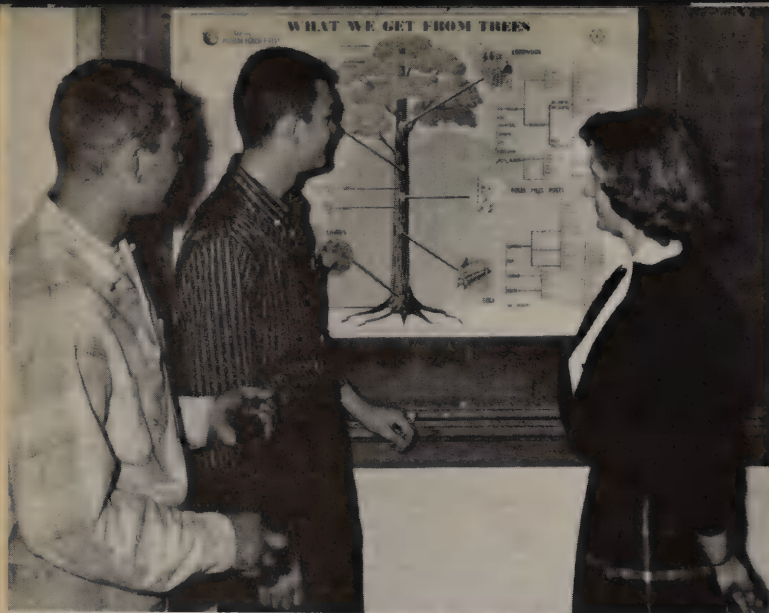

Everyone enjoyed listening to German records and singing popular songs "auf Deutsch." All the classes ushered in the Christmas season by singing "O Tannenbaum" and other well-known Yuletide tunes. The showing of movies and slides provided an interesting change in the regular classroom routine. This way of learning the fascinating customs and history of the German people interested first and second year students alike.

The singing of "Schnitzelbank" was enthusiastic.

Upper—Understanding conservation depended upon appreciating the value of natural resources.

Lower—The troubled Middle East was a center of interest in geography.

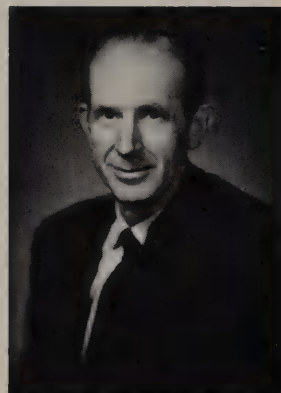

CONSERVATION

The preservation of "America the Beautiful" occupied students in conservation this past year. With Warren located deep in the Allegheny Mountains students had a first-hand opportunity to study wildlife and forestry conservation. Talks by officials from various conservation agencies added to the students' knowledge of the subject.

Presentation of the annual safety-first assembly by the conservation classes informed students of the need for caution while hunting.

WORLD GEOGRAPHY

Studying the topography of the earth and relating it to the problems of man himself were the objectives of students taking world geography. Only seniors took the second semester course. During the year students made several maps to acquaint themselves with the various geographic conditions in the world.

Individual initiative was vital to correspondence study.

CORRESPONDENCE

Correspondence gave students a chance to study in fields not offered in the usual curriculum. Among these courses were radio, auto mechanics, aviation, agriculture, and grammar. After receiving textbooks and directions, the students filled out worksheets at their own speed and took tests at the end of each unit. Various teachers corrected the daily work and the tests. Courses in correspondence counted as credits for graduation.

ART

Turning out posters like well-oiled machines, the art classes played an important part in advertising the various school functions. Students explored the mediums of ceramics, oils, water colors, temperas, charcoals, and pastels as they prepared material for their senior portfolios.

MECHANICAL DRAWING

The first part of the mechanical drawing course taught students the techniques of draftsmanship. The main objectives were learning how to letter correctly, measure precisely, and use the various instruments. Later future draftsmen, engineers, and architects put their knowledge into active use as they painstakingly designed and built their own constructions.

The mechanical drawing class strove for neatness and accuracy.

HOMEMAKING

This class learned the proper way to set a table.

Sally Daley, the star homemaker of W. H. S., won both the Apple Pie Baking and the Cherry Pie Baking Contests.

Homemaking included ninety-one students and consisted of the following two programs: a two-year vocational course for girls with previous training, and a one-year general course for senior girls only.

Class time in vocational homemaking comprised seven areas of study: family living, home management, child care, food, clothing management, home decoration, and family health. The girls enthusiastically sewed pretty clothes for themselves and formulated menus for delicious meals. The special group for senior girls covered all phases of homemaking.

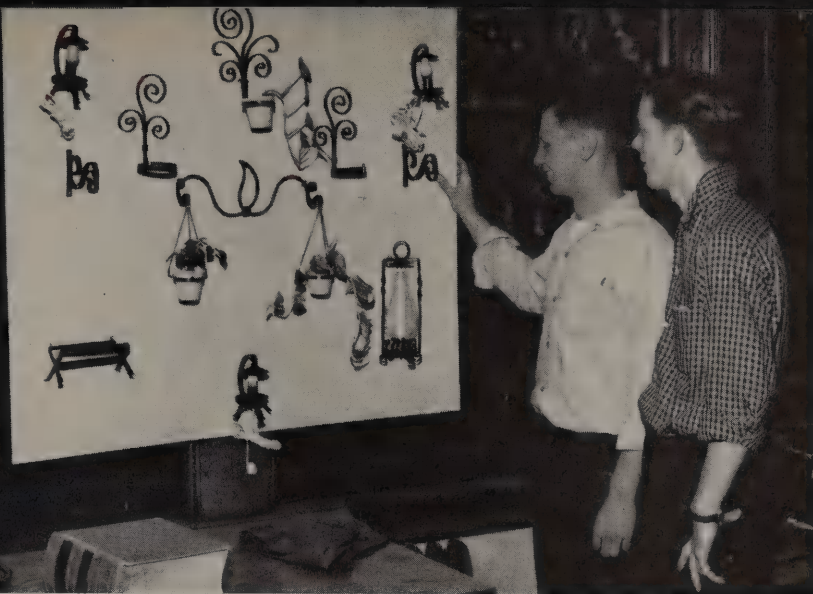

All classes had the opportunity to see a variety of home economic films. Occasional field trips to local stores and demonstrations by area home economists supplemented regular class study.

The apple dessert and cherry pie contests added interest and friendly competition to the course. The planning and presentation of the Good Manners Assembly provided an impressive project for the year.

SHOP

Seventeen boys in the morning and twenty boys in the afternoon took part in the year's shop program. These boys worked with engine lathes, milling machines, drill presses, a surface grinder, a metal cutting shaper, and all of the other common tools of an everyday workshop. Doing machine cold metal projects as well as conventional machine shop projects constituted part of the shop program. The boys also became familiar with forge work and arc welding. All in all this course provided a well-rounded knowledge of a modern machine shop.

Shop boys shared their experiences and learned to operate the basic machines of industry.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION FOR GIRLS

The girls enjoyed a well-rounded physical education program, planned by Miss Putnam. The fall agenda consisted of bowling, soccer, and volleyball. Winter sports included basketball and tumbling. Softball, tennis, and badminton highlighted the girls' activities in the spring. Dancing, calisthenics, and relay races were year-round activities.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION FOR BOYS

In the department of physical education for boys, Mr. Miller and Mr. Massa provided an interesting and well-organized program. Classes participated in softball, baseball, football, basketball, tennis, and volleyball. The boys practiced muscle-building by means of calisthenics, weight lifting, and wrestling. Less strenuous exercises included marching, dancing, ice skating, and swimming. At the end of each activity the boys took a test to determine their advancement in skill and co-ordination.

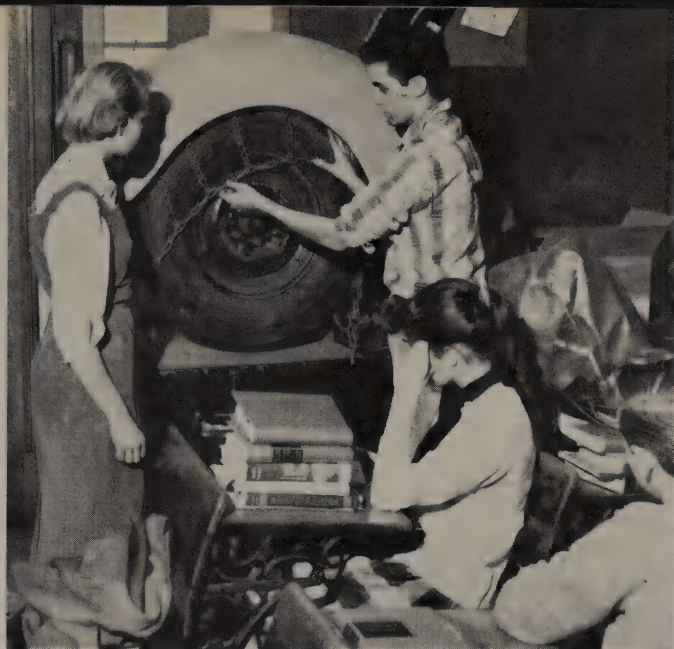

Almost every period found a fast game in progress in boys' gym classes.

Driver Education and Road Practice

DRIVER EDUCATION

Mastery of the techniques of sportsmanlike driving was the basis of study in driver education, a required one-semester course. Classroom lectures, periodic tests on theory, and motion pictures helped students to achieve the skills so necessary in becoming careful and competent drivers. Actual driving practice was also available to those students who planned to secure state operator's licenses. Although driver education classes consisted mostly of juniors, sophomores who had reached their sixteenth birthdays could also take the course.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION

Joan Hoffman, Grace Jackson, Donald Westfall, Gloria Mays, Raymond Wilcox, Mary Lou Covell, Mary Ann Campagna, Donald Cross, Earl Nollinger.

They Earned as They Learned

A sizable group of students received pay checks simultaneously with their diplomas at graduation time.

Under a program of distributive education they earned while they learned.

Distributive education included instruction and practical application in the retail sale of goods and other services to consumers. Salesmanship and operation of retail outlets formed the core of study. Other phases of the course emphasized correctness in applying for jobs, supervision of other employees, stockkeeping, retail mathematics, merchandising, advertising, and display.

Some students who took part in this course sold shoes, clothing, cosmetics, drugs, hardware, or other merchandise. Some became gas station attendants, cashiers, or grocery clerks. A few trained specifically to take over their own businesses.

This program called for class participation during the morning and practical work from one o'clock to six o'clock on school days and a full day's work on Saturday. These people earned an average of eighty-one cents per hour or a sum of $6,218.00 from September to May. Each teen-ager spent a minimum of fifteen hours per week on the job. Employers rated regularly these students on appearance, attendance, ability to follow instructions, enthusiasm, production, customer relations, and cooperation with other employees.

GUIDANCE

Students desiring information on their future careers found a sympathetic and helpful audience in the guidance office.

The guidance office, supervised by Miss Steele and Mr. Zulak, helped students solve personal and academic problems. Readily available were catalogues, scholarship programs, and bulletins concerning colleges and universities. Many students acquired jobs through the guidance office.

Administration of various aptitude and achievement tests was another part of the guidance program.

On file were complete records containing a history of all students who attended Warren High School.

Mr. Zulak helped to plan the curriculums of sophomores and juniors, assisted seniors with college applications, and was a cordial friend to all.

TYPING

Typing, an elective subject not limited to business students, interested a large number of academic students. After learning the keyboard and correct hand positions, first-year typists improved their speed and accuracy through the use of timed writings, business letters, and tabulation problems.

Second-year typists used special workbooks, which acquainted them with business forms, such as invoices, telegrams, inter-office memoranda, and letters of correspondence.

Business students learned the proper use of the adding machine to save time and mistakes.

BUSINESS MATHEMATICS

The primary aim of the business mathematics classes was to instruct students in every aspect of money uses: earning, spending, saving, and investing. Students reviewed the fundamentals of arithmetic, fractions, stocks and bonds, and the metric system. This knowledge provided them with a basis for use not only in business, but in everyday life.

Practice in alphabetical filing produced speed and accuracy.

BUSINESS ENGLISH

In the business English classes the study of English literature supplemented the strict business pattern of past years. Besides their study of correct grammatical usage, students learned the approved procedures for writing business letters, letters of application, and other business forms.

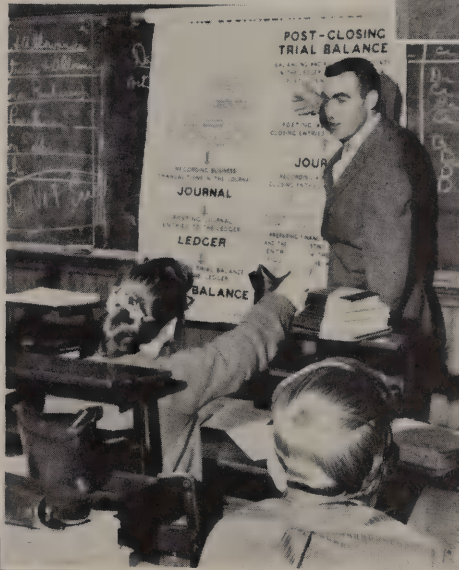

SHORTHAND

First-year students mastered the basic principles of shorthand. Then stressing neatness and correctness in their work, they advanced to more complicated words and letters. Second-year students practiced taking office dictation and transcribing their notes accurately at the typewriters.

"Today's Secretary" provided helpful hints for those looking for business careers.

"Can someone explain the bookkeeping cycle?"

A typist learned by use of an audio-graph to follow a voice at normal talking speed.

BOOKKEEPING

Emphasizing speed and accuracy, bookkeeping students learned the principles of record keeping that would be valuable in most offices. Other phases of the course included the study of income tax reports, pay rolls, and partnerships.

The office practice students gave the mimeograph machine a good workout.

OFFICE PRACTICE

Commercial students taking office practice became skilled in the operation of calculators, adding machines, electric typewriters, and transcribing machines. With the use of the duplicating machine, students produced copies of programs, menus, tests, and Student Council minutes.

Another important phase of office practice included the study of card indexing and correspondence filing.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful.

But his delight is in the law of the LORD; and in his law doth he meditate day and night.

And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.

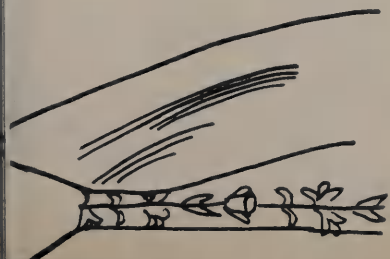

The ungodly are not so: but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away.

Therefore the ungodly shall not stand in the judgment, nor sinners in the congregation of the righteous.

For the LORD knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish.

It was a thrill for the entire school when all three choirs combined to sing " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Boys and girls in Warren High School with similar musical interests met twice a week under the name of the Choristers. Rather than being well-known as a performing group, the Choristers sang mainly for their own enjoyment. However, some members wished to train for later membership in the more advanced choirs. The highlight of the year for this group was the presentation of the Carol Festival Cantata, " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas," given in cooperation with the Choraleers, the A Cappella Choir, and the orchestra.

The Choraleers were students who enjoyed singing and who wished to learn the proper voice techniques. During the year they learned the different methods of projecting their voices. Their criteria were high since the majority of boys and girls worked toward becoming members of the A Cappella Choir.

Meeting three times a week, the choir prepared for their many programs, which included Christmas performances for area organizations and the annual Thanksgiving Chapel. The Choraleers participated in the annual Christmas Festival with the orchestra and other choirs.

A CAPPELLA CHOIR

Singing Christmas carols in the business section of Warren, the A Cappella Choir assisted the community in launching the Christmas season. At that time of the year the choir gave many well-received programs for various other civic organizations.

Attired in new robes, the A Cappella Choir presented the annual Carol Festival together with the orchestra, the Choraleers, and the Choristers. The singing of " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas" with orchestra accompaniment highlighted the program.

District Chorus, held at Linesville, Pennsylvania, on February 13, 14, and 15 provided an opportunity for a few talented seniors in the choir to gain much musical experience.

Other main events on schedule were the Mid-Winter Concert and the Spring Concert. Traditional presentation of pins at the Spring Concert was an important occasion for the seniors.

ORCHESTRA

Proving to be a fine musical organization, the orchestra presented many enjoyable programs through the year. Beginning with an assembly for the student body in December, the orchestra then followed this delightful program with an outstanding performance when they cooperated with the A Cappella Choir, the Choraleers, and the Choristers in the presentation of the annual Carol Festival. Another assembly and a program for the Kiwanis Club ended the orchestra's Christmas activities. In March a large audience was on hand for the next appearance of the orchestra in the annual Band and Orchestra Concert.

Eight members of the orchestra participated in the Northwest District Orchestra Festival at Conneaut Lake in January. Representatives making the trip were Gale Scholes and John Aldrich, first violins; Linda Berenfield and Sarah Ullrich, second violins; Robert Lindberg, bass viol; Susan Werner, first flute and piccolo; Donna Knapp, viola; and Cynthia Prichard, first oboe.

Terminating a year of worthwhile achievements, two members of this organization, Gale Scholes and Robert Lindberg, took part in the All-State Orchestra Concert.

CONCERT BAND

By entertaining the student body in many pep assemblies through the year, the Dragon Band added that extra touch of energy and school spirit. The force and zest with which they performed at all home football games indicated many tedious hours of marching practice. With special solo arrangements the band presented a complete assembly program. Gifted members attended the District Band at Northern Area High School and the State Band at Wellsboro. The band cooperated with the orchestra to present their annual concert on March 13. A successful year terminated with the exchange concerts with Bradford in early May.

Officers for the year were

President, Charles O'Connor; Vice President, James Hewitt; Secretary and Treasurer, Stephen Pearson.

In all kinds of weather the band played on.

SENIOR PLAY

"The Man Who Came to Dinner" brought a continuous roar of laughter from the capacity audience that greeted the Senior Play. The action centered around one main character, Mr. Sheridan Whiteside, a take-off on the famous radio commentator, Alexander Woolcott. Mr. Andersen, assisted by Barbara Berlin, directed the play.

From his opening line Don Sagramoso as Mr. Whiteside kept the audience in a boisterous mood. The love affair of Maggie Cutler (Beth Francis) and Bert Jefferson (David Sedwick) was a constant source of worry to the paternal Mr. Whiteside, who hated to lose Maggie as his secretary.

The real victims of the plot, however, were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley (Gerry Archibald and Priscilla Ross), whose misfortune it was to have Mr. Whiteside break his leg on their front doorstep. They had to put up with his obnoxious presence and settle for damage.

Through the play the audience met many of Whiteside's peculiar friends: Lorraine Sheldon (Kay White), whom Mr. Whiteside brought into the picture to break up Bert and Maggie's love affair; Banjo (James Schorman) whose brazen actions amused the audience; Beverly Carlton (Robert Karlson), who brings Whiteside the gossip from the outside world; and Metz (Gary Holmberg), who brought Whiteside a community of cockroaches for amusement.

Adding to the humor and providing many delicate subplots were Miss Preen (Nancy Lanman), Sheridan Whiteside's haggard nurse; Dr. Bradley (David Trager), a doctor whose interests extended beyond medicine to the field of literature; John (Frank Shackett), the dry-witted butler; June and Richard Stanley (Ann Davidson and Robert Knapp), the Stanley's beloved teenage children; and Harriet Stanley (Mary Hagstrom), a strange old woman with a secret.

The play ended on a happy note when Mr. Whiteside rebroke his leg and had to spend another glorious month with the Stanleys.

Don Sagramoso portrayed Mr. Sheridan Whiteside.

Upper Left—Representatives of Dieges and Clust seemed to enjoy taking orders for class rings as much as these juniors enjoyed giving them.

Upper Right—Fire drills, required by law once a month, were a pleasant interruption, especially on the way back when talking was permissible.

Lower Left—He may not have been authentic, but this Santa Claus produced a good share of jovial humor at the Christmas Carol Festival.

Lower Center—The big, blue band truck, piloted by Jay Benze, transported bulky instruments and other paraphernalia to football games and concerts.

Lower Right—Mr. Leroy Peck, a former teacher at W. H. S., returned to take over Mr. Young's classes at mid-semester when Mr. Young retired.

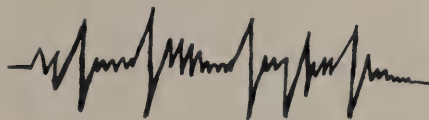

Upper Left—The cheerleaders and the band cooperated to lead pep songs during pre-game assemblies.
Middle Left—A bleak, misty day did not stop the band from presenting its half-time show.
Lower Left—Everyone crowded into The Spot to let off steam after the exciting Jamestown game.

Upper Right—Typical of many Christmas parties, the German Club "Weihnachtsfest" included a gift exchange. This Fraulein's pickled fish brought howls of laughter.
Middle Right—The orchestra fended for itself as Mr. Summers led the audience in a lively rendition of "Jingle Bells."
Lower Right—Moments to remember—the traditional Student Council Snow Ball.

STUDENT COURT

Warren High School formulated plans for a Student Court in the spring of 1957. The first court session convened in May of the year 1958. Each home room elected a member to the Student Court. The court members then elected their officials from the Court Body. The Constitution provided for two judges, a secretary, and a clerk to serve a term of one year. The court elected twelve jurors and two attorneys for each session. Whenever deemed necessary by the board of advisors consisting of the two judges, the principal, and the faculty advisor, the members assembled for trial. If the verdict in a defendant's case indicated a need for correction, the court sent a letter recommending necessary action to the principal.

The purpose of the Student Court was to help students understand various problems within the school and to let them assist in solving these problems.

Lower Left—The snow fascinated Vil when she viewed it for the first time, and even after days of zero weather she said, "It's lots of fun."

Upper Right—On Student Day Council President Bevevino, acting as principal, dictated a memorandum to his secretary, Sandra Burke.
Middle Right—Vilumin Benedicto, our Filipino friend, amazed her audience as she danced between rhythmically controlled sticks.
Lower Right—Members transformed the gym into a gaily decked dance floor for the annual Snow Ball.

The purpose of the Student Council included providing opportunities for student participation in school government, sponsoring worthwhile school activities, planning a forum to discuss questions of interest to the student body, and attaining a better relationship between students and faculty.

Forty-five members, consisting of home-room representatives, class co-presidents, and representatives-at-large, formed the eight standing committees which carried out the functions of the Student Council.

Beginning their activities with the annual Get-Acquainted Week, the Council sponsored an assembly in which our first exchange student, Vilumin Benedicto, greeted her new classmates. In November the skating party was a great success. The Student Council brightened the Christmas season by presenting the annual Snow Ball. A clean-up campaign and Student Day were the projects for January. The Council established a monitor system at the beginning of the second semester and purchased a much-needed fountain for the large study hall. Delegates to the Student Council Convention at Kennett Square on October 10, 11, and 12 were Ruth Ann Hamilton and Mark Peterson. This convention gave the Student Council fresh ideas and helped them to plan a better program for the coming year.

CANDY SELLERS and HALL PATROL

When the candy sellers appeared, a line of students, each with a gnawing sweet tooth, formed like magic.

Sport fans also welcomed the sight of the boys and girls who sold pop, potato chips, and hot dogs at the football and the basketball games. Student Council sponsored this service as a means of raising funds.

Under the direction of Mr. Noecker the traffic squad supervised the heavy flow of traffic in the halls. Each person was responsible for a specific post with substitutes filling in for absent members. Besides giving their services between periods, the girls also ushered at various school functions. Girls chosen from the list of volunteers began their duties in May.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Qualifications for membership in the National Honor Society depended upon the four cardinal virtues: character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Election to this society was one of the highest honors that Warren High School could bestow.

Fourteen seniors who had become members in May of their junior year formed the nucleus of the Chapter. They arranged an assembly in November, inducting ten more seniors. Thirteen more members of the Class of 1958 became members in February. They were David Ahlgren, Barbara Berlin, Richard Campbell, James Cronmiller, Karen Curtis, Patricia Delp, Mary Lynn Leonard, Cynthia Maier, Mary Lou Mancuso, Susan Mead, Cynthia Prichard, Joan Smith, and Steven Vanek.

During the year the National Honor Society participated in several worthy projects. They ushered at Parents' Night and sponsored a talent assembly with entertainment by student amateurs. The sale of book covers and senior name cards provided money for the National Honor Society Scholarship Fund.

FOOTBALL TEAM

Two years ago Warren High School had an undefeated football team. This year produced just the opposite. No one definitely knew the reason.

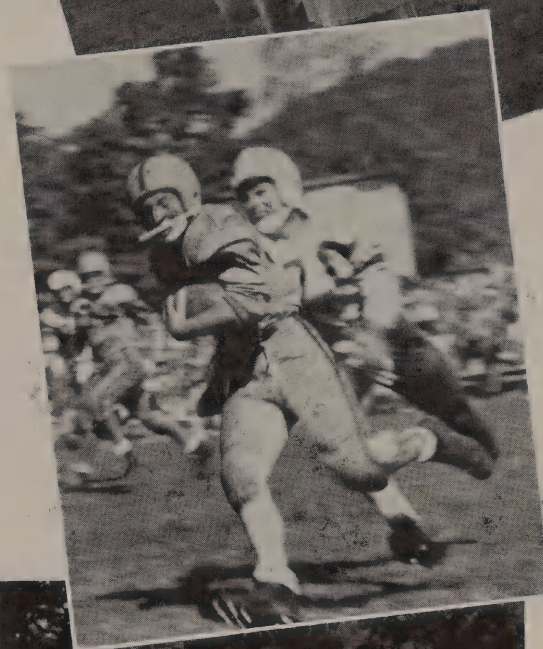

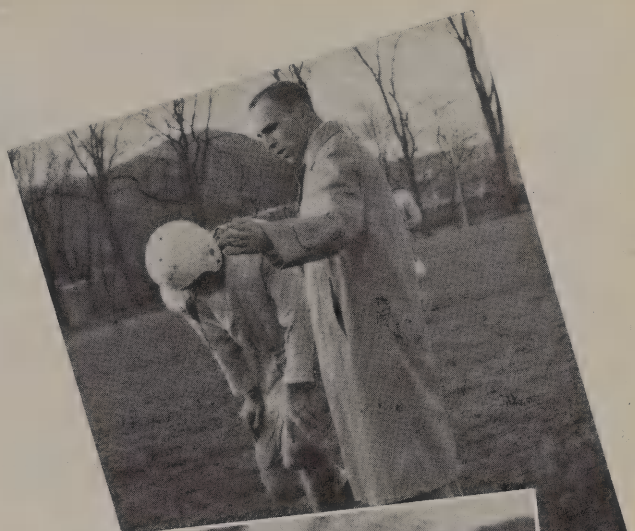

However, this season was by no means a failure. Fighting for ten games without a victory took stubborn determination. The team deserved great credit for the sportsmanlike conduct exhibited at all times.

As the season wore on, the Dragons became tougher and tougher, until at the close they held their strongest opponents to narrow winning margins. In the final game Warren gave the unbeaten, untied section champions the biggest scare and the closest game of their season.

BASKETBALL

The Dragons entered the 1958 season with one returning letterman. Inexperience, however, did not hinder the team; they proceeded to win all of their home games. They proved their steadiness and determination by winning two games when the difference between victory and defeat was only one basket. The team deserved the admiration given them by the student body for their fine record of fifteen victories and six defeats.

Teamwork enabled Jack Karkosky, star forward of the Dragon team, to be the consistent high scorer.

Strain showed on the players' faces during a sudden-death overtime with Titusville.

TRACK

Nine returning lettermen formed the nucleus of the 1958 Track and Field Team. They were Craig Johnson, Robert Haslet, Conrad Hultman, John Suppa, Robert Swanson, Ronald Bowen, Clair Tremblay, William Brumagim, and Jack Karkosky. Others joined this active squad of which Mr. Briggs was head coach.

Practice began in the gymnasium with calisthenics while the weather remained cold. Soon more vigorous activity replaced the in-door exercises, and pole vaulters, broad jumpers, discus and javelin throwers began full-strength performance. Eliminations before every meet decided the participants in the following day's encounter.

The team was active with an average of two meets per week and deserved much praise for their fine record.

Up and over the bars he went, winning the pole vaulting event for Warren.

Swish. . . . sh . . sh! It took brawn to place first in the discus event.

All except a few clock watchers glued their eyes to the mat during a tense moment.

A Dragon wrestler had the advantage over his opponent.

WRESTLING

In 1958 for the first time in the history of Warren High School, the Dragon wrestlers became Section II champions. Hard work and team spirit produced the excellent record of six victories and three losses.

Every girl enrolled in gymnasium class was automatically a member of the Girls' Athletic Association. An intramural schedule included basketball, volleyball, and softball. This program stimulated interest in sports, gave better knowledge of athletics, promoted sportsmanship among the girls, and provided opportunity for participation in these activities.

The G. A. A. held several important meetings for the discussion of business. They planned a Play-Day and presented an interesting assembly. The gymnastic exhibition in which Mr. Miller's classes participated was an outstanding event of the year.

A volleyball game produced fast and sometimes confused action.

The Lettermen's Association had a variety of interests. In the hope of establishing a tradition, the club sponsored a Hallowe'en dance as their first project of the year. Cider, doughnuts, pumpkins, and cornstalks gave the proper atmosphere to this combination round dance and hoedown.

Parents of wrestling team members were guests of the lettermen at a special match. Later the club similarly honored the parents of the boys on the basketball team.

The Lettermen's Association provided ushers for the basketball and the wrestling contests. Members were also available to lend a hand when other organizations needed manpower.

At the end of the year the Round Robin Dance for all athletes and their dates brought activities to a close.

The Harvest Hop sponsored by the lettermen was a highlight of the social year.

Shots rang in the Beaty Rifle Range on Tuesdays and Thursdays during Rifle Club practice. Boys and girls assumed either the prone, the sitting, the kneeling, or the standing position and attempted to make a perfect score of ten consecutive bull's-eyes.

The ultimate goal of each member was to receive the award of Distinguished Rifleman given by the National Rifle Association. Each practice enabled the eager members to make one more step toward this goal through the long line of ratings.

The five best shots in the club constituted the Warren High School Rifle Team. The team participated in the N. R. A. matches at Bradford and also had matches with other schools.

The letter for marksmanship was one of the hardest to earn in a Warren High School sport, and those winning it had cause for pride.

GERMAN CLUB

Co-Presidents.....Gilbert Hansen, Jack Suppa
 SecretaryDorothy Burger
 TreasurerCharles O'Connor
 Advisors.....Mr. Zulak, Mr. Kauffman

The German Club initiated its new members at a dinner held on October 24 with second-year students furnishing the tureens. As a part of their initiation first-year students, wearing the German Club colors of red and white, sang popular German songs and carried on conversations "auf Deutsch."

German Club members enjoyed a delicious chicken dinner with all the trimmings at their annual "Weihnachts Fest," held at the new Penn Laurel Motel. Two quartets entertained the group and Vilumin Benedicto did the Filipino bamboo dance. After dinner the dining hall rang with the singing of "O Tannenbaum," "Stille Nacht," "O Du Froehliche," and other traditional German Christmas songs. The exchange of humorous gifts concluded the delightful evening.

Members enjoyed coffee and cake at the Kaffee Kuchen Stunde.

A year packed with fun for all came to a conclusion with a farewell picnic for the seniors.

LATIN CLUB

The fascination of a foreign tongue and the challenge of an ancient people fostered a lively interest in the study of Latin. Learning the accomplishments of famous Roman leaders together with the customs of the average Roman citizens provided an enjoyable program for the Latin Club. All members of the Latin classes were eligible for membership.

A standard Latin achievement test offered competition with other students in this country and some foreign countries. Results, which were gratifying, showed Warren students averaging well with other contestants.

Mr. Stachowiak was the advisor.

Row I—Vilumin Benedicto, Linda Lytle, Martha Fay, Susan Johnson, Joan Dunham, Barbara Kofod, Lucinda Dick, Sandra Burch.

SPANISH CLUB

One of the most important affairs of the year for the Spanish Club was the Christmas tureen dinner. After the banquet members sang Spanish Christmas Carols. The highlight of the evening was a talent show featuring various instrumental and dance routines. According to Spanish tradition, the party ended with the breaking of the pinata.

An enjoyable picnic climaxed the year for Spanish Club members.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

President John Camigliano
 Vice President Richard Smith
 Secretary Rose Tigani
 Treasurer Gale Scholes
 Advisor Mrs. Andersen

F. T. A. members requested Dr. Whipple to speak at a meeting.

The Future Teachers of America investigated the numerous requirements and possibilities for future careers in teaching.

The program for the year included the presentation of an assembly program, a radio broadcast, and visits to classrooms in the borough schools to observe teaching methods. Dr. Carl Whipple spoke before the club on "Requirements for Obtaining a Teaching Position." At another meeting, F. T. A. members carried on a panel discussion on "Desirable Fields in Teaching."

Judy Wrhen and Rose Tigani attended the District Convention of the Future Teachers of America, held in Erie. They brought back helpful information to the club.

Initiation of new members took place at a picnic in May.

 SecretaryJacqueline Young
 TreasurerRose Comberati
 AdvisorMr. Frits

Any student taking a business subject was eligible to become a member of the Future Business Leaders of America.

As a service to all Warren High School students the F. B. L. A. set aside each Monday as a banking day.

Row I—Janet Shmonsky, Patricia Armstrong, Janice Larson, Maureen Peterson, Frances Fazio, Nancy Reynolds, Julia Sparks, Jacquelyn Young, Bonnie Tremblay, Kraig Werlin.
 Row II—Marcia Parise, Alice McClelland, Dianne Seymour, Joan Brown, Nancy Collins, Sandra Steinkamp, Rose Comberiati, Jean Massa, Barbara Yaegle, Cynthia Johnson.

LEADERS OF AMERICA

With a portion of the income made from the sale of ballpoint pens and Warren High School pennants the members provided patients at the Warren State Hospital with canteen tickets.

The regional meeting, held on March 22 at Youngsville, gave the members an opportunity to compete in spelling, public speaking, shorthand, and typing contests.

Winners of the regional contest attended a state convention at Wernersville and submitted a scrapbook in competition with other Pennsylvania schools.

Selling pennants boosted school spirit and the club treasury.

DRAMATIC CLUB

OFFICERS: Eugene Erickson, Treasurer; Elizabeth Alexander, Co-President; Donald Sagramoso, Co-President; Patricia O'Hara, Secretary.

Senior members of the Dramatic Club helped to prepare the set for the Senior Play.

The Dramatic Club provided opportunities for participation in acting, directing, and all phases of backstage work. Attending the dress rehearsals of the Players' Club Plays, members of the Dramatic Club acquired a more intimate knowledge of the working of a dramatic presentation.

A group of Dramatic Club members entertained the teachers at their Christmas party with Booth Tarkington's hilarious farce, "The Trysting Place."

The largest project undertaken by the Dramatic Club was the Evening of Plays. After many weeks of hard work the curtain opened on two comedies, Horton Foote's "The Dancers," and Mary Katherine Reely's "The Flittermouse," and a dramatically terrifying presentation of W. W. Jacobs' "The Monkey's Paw".

The club also gave a radio broadcast and an assembly program with the assistance of the advisor, Mr. Andersen.

Girls taking second-year shorthand automatically became members of the Stenographers' Club.

Monthly business meetings occurred during class time. Programs dealing with various phases of the business world followed the business meetings.

In December the girls enjoyed a Christmas party at the home of their advisor, Mrs. McClure. Showing their Christmas spirit, they prepared a food basket for a needy family and collected jewelry and clothing for patients at the State Hospital.

The script committee discussed plans for the fashion show.

The annual Style Show and the Mother-Daughter Banquet were other important social events of the year. First-year shorthand students and the club members climaxed their activities with a picnic.

Artists and draftsmen who wished to share their experiences joined the Pen and Pencil Pushers' Club. The club worked through the classes to encourage interest in the lives and styles of the world's great artists. At Christmas time many of the members participated in making mobiles to brighten the halls and the cafeteria.

Neat and accurate drafts of various items and art displays of all kinds made the art room a gallery of the students' accomplishments. People in the art and the mechanical drawing classes were eligible for membership.

This year the Y-Teens sponsored many worthwhile projects and had a number of enjoyable social activities. A year filled with enthusiasm and spirit for all Y-Teens began with an auction. A corn roast and a hay ride were two of the most enjoyable events in the fall.

Highlights of the Yuletide season were the traditional "Hanging of the Greens" and the annual Belle Ball. A pizza party, a spaghetti supper, basketball games, and a slumber party were other unforgettable events.

In addition to these special activities the Y-Teens presented a weekly fifteen-minute radio program for the public. A swimming period was available every other week for interested members.

In May the junior Y-Teens entertained the seniors at a breakfast. The annual Mother and Daughter Banquet terminated a delightful year.

The thirty-five members of the Hi-Y Club began the year with a complete slate of activities.

The Warren High School group chose Pat Madden to represent them at the Youth Government Day in Harrisburg. Richard and William Elmhurst, elected by the Pre-Legislative Assembly in Meadville, also attended this convention.

Activities which the club sponsored and took part in through the year were the "Hanging of the Greens," hayrides, co-ed swimming parties, movie parties, sleep-outs, a Father-Son Supper, a basketball tournament, Youth in Government Day, Hi-Y week, an opinion poll, the Older Boys' Conference in Corry, and an assembly program.

Members of the Hi-Y, which met every Wednesday evening, carried out the Hi-Y purpose: To create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, the school, and the community high standards of Christian character.

President Madden discussed with other Hi-Y members Youth in Government Day at Harrisburg.

Supervising the production of the "Dragonette," Mr. Carr explained a layout technique.

The news bureau prepared a daily press release for the local paper.

At the signal of the bell the "Dragonette" reporter broadcast the latest news.

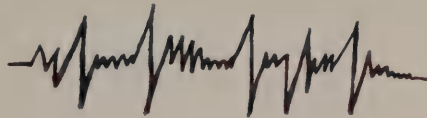

Miss Steele performed the vital task of typing every article in columns for paste-up and offset reproduction.

DRAGONETTE

The Dragonette Staff undertook more than the production of a school newspaper. Every morning the "Dragonette" reporter gave a brief summary of important news and made announcements of coming events over the public-address system. This entailed collecting and assembling all the necessary data. During the first period, which was a newswriting class for all staff members, the news bureau compiled and edited a press release for the local daily paper. Besides supplying the regular "High School News" column, the bureau also took charge of feature articles about the school.

The primary and most challenging job for the "Dragonette" Staff was publishing the "Dragonette," the monthly school newspaper. The class divided into small groups to work on each page. An issue editor supervised and coordinated the production with the assistance and guidance of Mr. Lyell Carr, the advisor. Lithographed by the Warren Printing Company, the paper required a perfect dummy sheet for each page. Miss Steele handled the task of spacing the copy and typing into columns the thirty-odd articles of every issue. With the paper, which cost ten cents per copy, students received "Scholastic Roto," a special national supplement. Staff members felt a justified sense of pride as each issue reflected their growing journalistic skill.

Managing the finances was one of the most difficult chores in publishing the Dragon. The sales alone required a mountain of bookwork. A very vital job was soliciting donations from local stores, firms, and other patrons. Profits from money-making projects supplemented the other funds.

In 1958 the Dragon Business Board competently financed this yearbook. Board members sold blue and white pom-poms and stationery bearing a dragon emblem. Through their efforts the price of the book remained at 50% of cost. The business manager, assisted by Mr. Hosie, kept accurate accounts of every sale, donation, and profit and later handled the payment of bills. The Dragon Business Board deserved great credit and the gratitude of every student for the manner in which they accomplished their often tedious but always essential task.

Immediately upon their appointment at the end of May, the Dragon Board and their advisor, Miss Hurd, started work on the theme and format of the yearbook. Mr. Kauffman agreed to process the photographs and to help the Dragon photographic editors take the many pictures necessary for the book. With his encouragement, the Dragon Board purchased their own camera. In September the board decided on the cover and the color scheme for the book. The editor, the advisors, and the members of the board met with the printer and the engraver. As the year progressed, the art department submitted their sketches, the literary department compiled their write-ups, and the photographic department completed their pictures, thus recording the events of the year 1957-1958 in Warren High School.

Every page required discussion and careful planning.

Mr. Kauffman concentrated on having an exact focus. When he was not teaching a class, usually he was somewhere taking pictures for the Dragon.

Displaying samples of Dragon stationery, these business board members anticipated a great number of sales.

Composing the many write-ups for the Dragon was a staggering job.

SPONSORS

The members of the Business Board appreciate the many generous contributions which have helped with the publication of the 1958 Dragon. We heartily thank you.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Dragon Staff sincerely thank the many individuals and groups who have contributed to the publishing of this book. Miss Hurd, the literary advisor, deserves credit for her effort to produce nothing short of the best possible. Mr. Hosie, the business advisor, and Mr. Passaro, the principal, have lent invaluable advice and reassurance at crucial moments.

This year for the first time the photography for the Dragon has been done almost entirely within the school. Without the generous assistance of Mr. Kauffman, photographic advisor, this would have been impossible. To him we extend deep gratitude. Mr. Fowler and the A Cappella Riser Committee have given useful help in taking group pictures. The photographers in Warren, especially Mr. Stoke, merit our appreciation. We are also grateful to the "Times-Mirror" for their kindness. We heartily thank Mr. Walsh and Mr. Hedberg of "The Warren Observer" for their time, the use of the darkroom at the Observer plant, and their help in procuring photographic materials.

We are greatly indebted to Mr. Zebrun of Kurtz Brothers for helping with the cover, to Mr. Zimmerman of the Zimmerman Engraving Company for his advice and careful handling of our copy, and to Mr. Berdine of the Keystone Printery for his interest and patience.

Finally the staff express their gratitude to the students of Warren High School, the teachers and administration, and the citizens of our community. All have in some way helped in the creation of the Dragon; we hope it meets with their approval.

"The world stands out on either side,
No wider than the heart is wide.
Above the world is stretched the sky,
No higher than the heart is high.

. . . . peace."
